

Dwight School is an IB World School in north London serving students aged 3-19 representing over 50 nationalities.

While many in the community are local London residents, the majority are the children of international diplomats, professionals from the banking, automotive, advertising, entertainment, IT, pharmaceutical industries, and visiting university academics. This diversity gives Dwight students the opportunity to engage with a local London community while also gaining an international perspective. 'Igniting the spark of genius' is Dwight's motto, meaning that Dwight strives to provide a personalised education where each student's talents are nurtured and developed in the context of the holistic IB programmes.

Dwight understands the needs of diplomatic families. An inclusive rolling admissions policy enables students to join year-round. Dwight is famed for its English as an Additional Language programme for students of all ages, while at the same time being aware of the importance of nurturing the mother tongue/home language. Dwight's transportation service supports international families less familiar with the school-run routines. Dwight is also proud to offer bursaries to the children of visiting academics and NGO leaders who often come to the UK via their respective embassies to work and learn at London's leading universities or work in international charities and think-tanks– a gesture made in the spirit of professional collaboration with the expectation that these parent colleagues will demonstrate a willingness to share and support the school with their own professional expertise on areas of mutual institutional interest.

Most of all, Dwight offers the friendly and caring school that helps to ease the adjustment to a new country. As part of the Dwight community who have collectively lived, worked and studied in over 70 countries, diplomat families will find others who share their experience. In the words of the Good School Guide, 'Dwight is a kind school'.
